

Paul Weiss and Von Wobeser sign electricals acquisition

Friday, 3 June 2016 (13 hours ago) by Lulu Rumsey

Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison, LLP and Von Wobeser y Sierra SC have helped US investor KPS Capital Partners buy electrical components manufacturer Whitepath Fab Tech.

Whitepath manufactures control boxes for heating and air conditioning units. It runs five manufacturing facilities, four in Texas and one in Saltillo, Mexico. Georgia law firm Cohen Pollock Merlin & Small is believed to have advised Whitepath, but the firm did not confirm this before publication. The deal was announced on 16 May, with the value kept confidential.

KPS is already the owner of Electrical Components International, which manufactures wire harnesses and mechanical assembly products.

Counsel to KPS Capital Partners

Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison, LLP

Partners Angelo Bonvino and associates Michael Vogel and Jonina Sauer in New York

Von Wobeser y Sierra SC

Partners Andrés Nieto, Edmond Grieger and Rodolfo Trampe and associates Alberto Córdoba, Alix Trimmer and Roberto Flores in Mexico City

Comments

There are currently no comments.